HIGHLIGHTS
Volume 52 Issue 3

SENT ON BEHALF OF SACHI HAMAI, CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

To All County Employees:

As our efforts to slow the spread of COVID-19 intensify, Los Angeles County’s Health Officer and the Governor of California have issued important new directives that ban all public and private gatherings, direct residents to stay at home as much as possible, and order the closure of malls, playgrounds, and all other “non-essential” businesses—from golf courses to nail salons.

Essential businesses like grocery stores, gas stations, and banks are all still open for business—and so is the County of Los Angeles.

In fact, it’s hard to imagine anything more essential than the work that you, our Los Angeles County employees, are currently performing.

I am writing to underscore that in Los Angeles County government, we are all essential.

Although our buildings are closed to the public, our vital services continue, from law enforcement and firefighters to health care workers, social workers and eligibility staff. Our libraries are available online, and our entire County family is working around the clock to help people affected by COVID-19 in ways large and small.

This is an all-hands-on-deck moment for the County.

By law, every County employee is also a disaster service worker and considered essential. The CEO has encouraged Department Heads to allow telecommuting for essential employees wherever possible. Essential workers assigned to telecommute remain subject to recall and reassignment.

While many employees are able to telework during this crisis if their job assignment permits, others must continue to report to work in person to fulfill vital roles. But—whether you are working from home or reporting in person—you are an essential worker. Check with your manager to make sure you understand your assignment and working arrangement.

Here are some of the other ways we are complying with the official directives to protect you and your families, while also ensuring that L.A. County remains the public's safety net.

- Teleworking is now in place to make working from home possible for many employees, including those 65 and older and/or with underlying medical conditions that make them likelier to become seriously ill from the virus.
- We're asking employees to stay home if they are feeling even mildly ill, and to call their doctors—rather than visiting in person—to find out whether they need to be tested.
- For those whose assignments don't permit them to work from home, we are changing workplace configurations so employees can remain the recommended six feet apart.
- We've turned in-person meetings into virtual get-togethers, and we are encouraging managers to permit scheduling flexibility where possible for employees who are juggling changes in family responsibilities due to this crisis.

I'd like to thank you for the remarkable efforts you are making under difficult circumstances, and to underscore the important role you are playing as public servants who are keeping our County running.

I also wanted to reiterate the common-sense guidance we all should be following: practice social distancing, don't leave the house except for essential activities, and reach out by text or phone to check in on friends and neighbors, especially those who are older. Get outside for a walk, eat healthy food and make sure to carve out time to decompress with a little binge-watching or a good book.

For a more comprehensive look at how this emergency and the new orders will affect your work and personal life, as well as life in the communities we serve, please consult this document, What County and State Orders Mean for Residents and Employees.

This public health emergency has affected virtually every aspect of our lives—on the job and off. I will be keeping you informed about this fast-moving situation as it develops and also encourage you to stay up with the latest on our website, covid19.lacounty.gov.

For a little inspiration about how you can brighten the lives of others, especially older adults, check out the “How you can help” section of the website covid19.lacounty.gov/covid19/how-you-can-help/.

It's a reminder that we're in this together, and our communities and neighbors are counting on us.

With appreciation,

Sincerely,

Sachi A. Hamai
Chief Executive Officer, Los Angeles County

A message from Director of Personnel Lisa M. Garrett

Andrea Ketchens is known by her coworkers for her warm smile and encouraging attitude.

I know her as one of our engaging and passionate Los Angeles County employees who just needed a little support to find stability for her and her family.

Andrea is one of more than 62 employees who have found permanent work in the County through the Temporary Services Registry Program, also known as TempLA.

The TempLA program provides on-the-job training, paid work experience and professional development resources for residents facing barriers to employment, which can include lack of work experience or justice-involvement. The goal of this temporary employment program is to provide participants with the tools they need to obtain permanent work with Los Angeles County or the private sector, return to school, or take the next stage in their professional career. Among the people we aim to help are Los Angeles County residents who are, or have, experienced homelessness.

Andrea and her family experienced homelessness for about two years — couch surfing and spending time in motels and other temporary places.

She needed a stable job and an opportunity to gain experience. That’s where TempLA comes in.

Andrea joined TempLA in 2017 and her first assignment was as an office support assistant for the Department of Public Works. She worked there until last November when she was offered a permanent job in the Department of Public Social Services as an intermediate clerk.

With the permanent job, Andrea says she’s found stability, a place to call home, and is giving back to the residents of Los Angeles County.

We know that job training, career development, and being provided with an opportunity can be life changing. We have seen this time and again with Andrea and the other participants of the TempLA program.

Thanks to you...

...people have participated in the TempLA program to date. They've gained valuable work experience, earned a paycheck, and served their communities.

Andrea Ketchens now works for the Department of Public Social Services' El Monte office where she performs clerical duties. Andrea started working full-time in November after successfully participating in TempLA.

STEPS FOR HANDWASHING

Stop the spread of germs and keep yourself and others from getting sick.

1. Wet your hands with warm water.

2. Lather up with soap. Soap gets rid of the oil that helps germs stick to your hands.

3. Rub and scrub your hands together for at least 20 seconds. Strongly rub and scrub your wrists, palms, between fingers, under your nails, and the backs of your hands. The soap and scrubbing action loosens the germs off your hands.

4. Rinse your hands thoroughly with warm, running water.

5. Dry your hands completely with a clean towel or paper towel. Use the towel to turn off the faucet when you're finished drying your hands. Throw the paper towel away.

If soap and water aren't available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer. Alcohol-based hand sanitizers can usually be found as a gel or wipes. Make sure the product is at least 60 percent alcohol.

To use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer:

- Rub the gel or wipe all over both hands.
- Rub hands together for 30 seconds until they feel dry.

LA County Library Launches Newly Updated Digital Collections

LA County Library has launched a newly updated Digital Collections platform, containing rare and unique images, documents, and audiovisual materials that document the history and culture of Los Angeles County. The collections represent digitization collaborations between LA County Library, County departments, and members of various communities who have contributed personal materials documenting the historical experiences of LA County residents. The update includes easier navigation, additional tools to help reuse and contribute to the collections, and a mobile-friendly version.

See what County park facilities looked like in 1927, or photos of honored leaders and visionaries from the African American Living Legends Series in 1980. Go back in time to the early 1900s and see mules and carts traveling along PCH in Malibu, or travel to East Los Angeles in the 1940s where local community members have contributed historical and personal photographs of the people and places important to the area. The Digital Collections are rich with historical and geographic information and provide opportunities for researchers, residents, and the general public to explore the region's history. Visit LA County Library's Digital Collections at <http://history.lacountylibrary.org/>.

PROTECT2020

2020 Elections Alert

According to the Department of Homeland Security, foreign interference/voting tampering continues to threaten U.S. elections in many forms, including the active spreading of false information. Most recently, foreign governments have used cyberattacks and agitation on social media to influence the information environment in the United States and Europe. The use of cyber-enabled tactics are extremely manipulative and can create confusion for legitimate registered voters in areas within counties throughout the United States.

Some known tactics for election tampering:

- Convincing audiences to abstain from voting in cities, counties and states
- Promoting disinformation about voter registration within communities
- Promoting disinformation about Election Day
- Performing cyber attacks to disrupt official voting registration platforms
- Conducting cyber attacks on voting infrastructure or public service to prevent voting
- Gaining unauthorized access and manipulating registration data to prevent voting

Here are some precautionary steps you can take from being deceived:

- In an attempt to earn your trust, cybercriminals may use fake or stolen social media accounts for malicious purposes.
- Ensure the online resources (e.g., Twitter, Instagram, blogs, etc.) you follow are trusted.
- Be sure to report any misinformation that is related to the election to the County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk (RRCC) at <https://lavote.net/contact-us>.
- For voting information, please visit RRCC's website at <https://lavote.net/>.

Additional information regarding the election alerts can be found on the Department of Homeland Security website: <https://www.dhs.gov>.
